

Bar Journal Committee

Committee of the Year

The Utah Bar Journal Committee publishes the Utah Bar Journal six times a year. All members of the Utah State Bar and the Paralegal Division receive the print version of the Journal as part of their annual dues. The Bar Journal Committee meets once a month to coordinate the many activities that go into publication. In addition to the monthly meetings, Committee members spend countless hours editing and otherwise completing the publication. The Committee is comprised of numerous dedicated legal professionals, including representatives from the Young Lawyers Division and the Paralegal Division. In addition, the Committee is ably supported by Bar staff. Many members have served on the Committee for a long time, including several members with more than 10 years of service.

The Bar Journal contains practical and informative articles on Utah legal issues and other matters of interest to Utah lawyers and paralegals. A distinctive feature of the Bar Journal is its covers, which typically feature photographs of Utah scenes taken by Utah lawyers and paralegals. In addition to the print version, the Bar Journal is available online on the Bar's website, utahbar.org. The site includes an archive of issues going back to 2001, which is fully searchable.

The Bar Journal was first published in 1973, and the publication changed to its current format in 1988. There have been three Editors-in-Chief of the Journal: Ray Owen, Cal Thorpe, and Bill Holyoak. Bill has announced his retirement and he will be succeeded by Alisha Giles, who is currently the Managing Editor of the Journal.
